

A quick note from your WySCA President

It has been said that Wyoming is one large community with very long streets. Come join your colleagues to experience this dynamic speaker and counselor educator in our community. Although it has not been possible for us to go to every District in Wyoming to personally invite you to the conference, we hope you will be able to partake in the resources we share on our professional school counselor journey. Please, stay connected and join us at the Thursday night Leadership Development session so we can all benefit from the gifts you bring to Wyoming school counseling. Sincerely,

Denise J. Lubken WySCA President

Dr. Tammy Davis

Also has an Education Specialist in Administration degree from Western Carolina University and her doctorate is from Virginia Tech. Before coming to Marymount in 1999, Dr. Davis was an elementary and high school counselor for nine years in Manassas, Virginia. Her professional positions have included being President of the Virginia Association for Counselor Education & Supervision and she is the Past-President of the Virginia School Counselor Association. In addition, she will join the ASCA Board as Counselor Educator Vice-President in Fall 2010.

*We welcome Dr. Tammy
Davis to Casper
Wyoming*

April 15, 2011

Location: Roberts Commons
in the Center of Casper College

Come experience...

her humor and extensive expertise in the realm of school counseling. She is a Professor in the School Counseling program at Marymount University in Arlington, VA. She began her 20+ years in education as a 1st and 2nd grade teacher. Dr. Davis was an elementary and high school counselor for nine years in Manassas, Virginia. Dr. Davis has presented over 50 workshops locally, regionally, and nationally on a number of topics in school counseling, including developing resilience, handling perfectionism, and the power of positive thinking in working with students. Her publications include books entitled The School Counselor's Book of Lists (2010) and Exploring School Counseling: Professional Practices & Perspectives (2005) and book chapters on counseling suicidal children and group counseling in schools.

Conference Keynote: A Call to Action: Choices and Challenges for Today's School Counselors

Recent literature has questioned the role and services that are provided by school counselors. With our professional identity and our contribution to educational reform being called into question, it's time to focus on attitudes and behaviors in order to change perceptions about the critical and necessary role of school counselors in student success. Join Dr. Davis as we take a look at ways to promote our profession while also reaffirming our commitment to the students we serve! If all goes well, we might laugh a little too!

Conference Session: Invite, Invest, Inspire: Counseling Activities that Foster Resilience in Students

The average 15-year old student has seen tremendous adversity in our world. This session will provide counseling activities to help students develop resilience and hope for a successful future. It will also include resilience information about school counselor self-care. Come prepared to participate and walk away with counseling activities that you can use in your school-counseling program immediately!
